Class Song—

Words by Pauline Bennett — Music by Margaret E. Hart

Along the road of life we go
The sunrise far behind
Lights up the way its golden glow
The noon-day soon will find
The noon-day soon will find.

But sweet has been this morn to us
In Memories will be
The brightest flow'rs along the way
Of life for you and me
Of life for you and me.

Oh High School days we say adieu
As hands of friends we clasp
The goal ahead we face anew
The torch of life to grasp
The torch of life to grasp.

And as the shadows lengthened
Foretell the close of day
Our hearts and hopes are strengthened
By the flowers along the way
By the flowers along the way.

Still brighter grows our pathway
As the time shall urge us on
And memories and hopes will greet
The sunset — and the dawn
The sunset — and the dawn.

Historical Sketch

As this school is now being dedicated to the cause of education and as it is the newest educational unit in the town of Arlington, it is fitting that a few historical facts be presented with reference to the building and the lot on which it stands.

The need of a new school building in the rapidly growing residential section of East Arlington was realized by the officials of the town many years ago and to meet the emergency when it arrived the sum of $13,000 was appropriated at the Town Meeting of March 26, 1917 to purchase this lot. On April 7, 1927 an additional appropriation of $3,702.65 was made to buy part of the land now included in the playground.

A special Town Meeting of January 21, 1927 authorized the appointment of a committee of five to procure plans and estimates for a junior high school in this location, and at a meeting held April 14, 1927 the citizens of the town appropriated the sum of $300,000 for the building. At the meeting held March 28, 1928, $50,000 was appropriated for walks, sidewalks, grading and furnishings.

The design of this building was the result of a competition among five well known architects whose plans were judged both as to appearance and efficiency before their names were known. The Frank Irving Cooper Corporation of Boston won the competition and were chosen as the architects.

Work was begun on Monday, August 8, 1927 and the building received its pupils on Monday, September 10, 1928, with 438 pupils enrolled.

Although all school buildings are constructed on a similar plan there are a few features presented by this building that are worthy of special note. The editor of the Educational Digest describes it as a building of "Structural beauty coupled with high educational efficiency," and continues the description in these terms, "The plans used are those of a structure beautiful in its dignity and with utilitarian advantages that recommend it to the most calculating mind. Sixty percent of its floor space is available for educational purposes, which is more than ten percent over the standards suggested as efficient. This factor, considered with the economy in construction and safety in use, makes this school outstanding among newer buildings."

One important feature of the building is its T-shaped construction. This effects a measure of separation between the academic portion and the auditorium and gymnasium which are in the top of the "T". Such separation means that noises during daytime exercises in the gym. or in the auditorium will have the minimum disturbing effect on the students in their class rooms. Further than this, with practically three units in the lighting and heating systems, the use of any one will not impose costs for lighting and heating the other or others, if not in use. There were some advantages in this plan of construction, since the larger work of the halls of auditorium and gymnasium was in a measure separate from that of the smaller class room. The "T" moreover, lends itself admirably to enlargement. The addition of a wing would change the "T" into an "H".

The academic section is 184 feet by 61. and the auditorium about 70 feet front by 150 deep. There are 16 class rooms, a library and one study room. In addition, two rooms are devoted to general science, one to drawing, and one to music.

The domestic arts have two rooms and there is a general mechanical shop and a print shop. The principal has a suite for his office force, and there are retiring rooms for the teachers. The auditorium has accommodations for a check-room and a ticket office which fit it for community use after school hours. An added feature is the Bristol reproducing horn, which gives a phonograph record or a radio a volume of sound adequate to the hall. The gymnasium is equipped with showers, lockers, and dressing rooms and includes offices for the physical directors and the school nurse.

This school house is the fifth building erected in as many years to house our rapidly growing school population, and is the largest school building in Town except the High School. During the last 10 years Arlington and Belmont have had the largest percentage increase in population in the Metropolitan area. Realizing these facts, it should be a matter of pride to our citizens to know that even with a yearly increase in school population of over 500, requiring a new school house each year, Arlington has been able to finance this extensive program without appealing to the legislature for authority to borrow beyond the debt limit.

The school children of Arlington are now housed in brick buildings of good construction, with two portables to take care of any local emergency.

YEAR BOOK

ARLINGTON HIGH SCHOOL Dear Book

There is a mystic borderland that lies
Just past the limits of our work-day world,
And it is peopled with the friends we met
And loved a year, a month, a week or day,
And parted from with aching hearts, yet knew
That through the distance we must lose the hold
Of hand with hand, and only clasp the thread
Of memory. But still so close we feel this land.
So sure we are that these same hearts are true,
That when in waking dreams there comes a call
That sets the thread of memory aglow,
We know that just by stretching out the hand
In written word of love, or book, or flower,
The waiting hand will clasp our own once more
Across the distance, in the same old way.

IN APPRECIATION

It is the desire of the class of thirty-one to express its sincere appreciation of the friendship, the direction of its scholastic life, and the interest in its outside activities of Mr. Gammons, its principal. His friendship has proved invaluable, his direction in school life of greatest benefit. But the quality which has been prized most highly is the interest which he has taken in the welfare of the various clubs and athletic teams. His kindly influence shall long be remembered by every member of the class.

Hail, Mariners! Be glad! Dispel your fears!
Ahead there is a bright and shining light;
The port, toward which we've struggled many years,
At last, good mates, at last has come in sight.

Be steady, friends, for though one port is near,
Our long and weary voyage is not done.
Have courage, high ideals, and lofty cheer,
Gain vigor for the voyage not begun!

We've had a pilot's guidance all the way,
Ahead where raging billows toss and sway
But soon we'll have to guide our ships alone,
We'll sail with hope to meet the great Unknown.

So far our ship has weathered every gale,
And there must never, never come a day,
When we'll hold back and be afraid to sail
When obstacles or perils bar the way.

Alone, across Life's vast and endless sea!
Our hope and courage must not ever die,
We'll meet Life's problems, and determined be,
Till we reach Port with colors flying high.

THE HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF 1931

Inspire me, O Muses, in order that I may recall the many celebrities and achievements of the class of 1931, for our high school days have come to a close. Our memorable student life that has been filled with the joys, hardships, and experiences typical only of a three-year stay at Arlington High School has been completed. It is my privilege to unroll the eventful scroll of the history of our class.

Our sophomore year is rather indistinct in our minds, but we do remember that day in September, a few years ago, when we were seated in the Assembly Hall and hearkened unto the fatherly words of our distinguished principal as he cautioned and welcomed us into the school that seemed such a novelty. As the year progressed, many of our class contributed to the honor and glory of the school on the athletic field. In studies, our class also attained an enviable position. We placed on the Honor Roll more students than either of the other classes. It was in our sophomore year that the talented Olive Little played the title roll in the public production—the operetta, “The Lotus Blossom.” In June of this year we experienced our first final examinations in high school and emerged successfully. Thus was our sophomore year completed.

We returned the following September to find ourselves full-fledged juniors. We discovered that, in our absence, the school had been extensively renovated. Two rooms distinctly loomed up in the places formerly held by the memorable rooms 14 and 15. Then, too, we missed chorus every Monday morning, and because this enjoyable period had been abolished, never more would the historic halls of old Arlington High School resound with the musical notes issuing from one thousand harmonious throats. In this, our junior year, we conducted a junior “prom.” It was a success; ours was the first junior class in some time to operate such an affair in a profitable manner. This fact was perhaps due to the keen business acumen of our classmate, Walter Gutzman, who has been active in all school business, and to the remarkable cooperation of the junior class as a whole. Donald Hagerman received two distinct honors in our junior year—he served as captain of the football team and was elected to the highest position of class president.

Upon the completion of vacation, we took our places as seniors, and proceeded to enjoy our banner year. Each individual of our class had opportunity to flaunt his oratorical genius during the year. Many a promising Patrick Henry was unearthed, but John Parker proved himself the finest orator. In athletics, our classmates dominated the respective teams. Barbara Carr, the captain; Louise Donnelly, Marjorie Baker, and Margaret Hart were outstanding on the girls' field hockey team, and the first two mentioned were selected as all-scholastic players. Elizabeth Eames was the captain of the girls' basketball team, and the team enjoyed a successful season. In football, Edmond Gallucci captained a worthy team whose ranks were studded with members of our class. The basketball team was led by Weston Ogilvie, and Raymond Thomas was the selected leader of the famous hockey team. This worthy group of players had the ability and courage to win for itself second place in its league, losing only to a team that was the most powerful team in the history of hockey in the Mystic Valley League. Lester Barrett and William McCarthy captained the baseball and track teams respectively. Both these teams experienced fine seasons as they were both constantly victorious. In scholastic standing, honor is due the following for their continued excellence in their studies: Barbara Carr, Frances Sheppard, Pauline Bennett, Margaret Hart, Edwin Brainard, John Parker, Edward Cook, and Copeland MacAllister.

The Dramatic Club and the Glee Clubs combined to present the operetta "Patience." Francis Dineen and Dorothy Pluta starred in this production. Allen Smith was president of the Dramatic Club, and exhibited his ability as an actor on several occasions. Later, the club presented "Shavings," the title role of which was most ably presented by John Parker. Otis MacMillin deserves special commendation for his remarkable work in directing the "Clarion." The fine quality of work in the magazine this year is worthy of A.H.S. Edward Adams, George Alexie, Francis Dineen, Donald Hagerman, Charles Lane, and George Linnane are to be congratulated on their prowess in athletics and also for their fine sportsmanship. The class officers for this year were: William McCarty, president; Barbara Carr, vice-president; Frances Sheppard, secretary, and Raymond Thomas, treasurer. Close on the heels of the public play came the exchange of graduation pictures, that yearly procedure which causes much expense to the more popular members of the class. Our Senior Prom was an event to be remembered, outstanding for its magnificent decorations and beautiful feminine attendance. Last but by far not the least was graduation, the zenith of our high school career, wherein we spent an hour banded together for a last time as a class and received our coveted diplomas. Now these events belong to history and memory, but it is an eventful history and the memories are sweet. May health and happiness follow each member of this class of 1931 in its after life. All Hail the Class of 1931!

YEAR BOOK

Class Oration

It is my duty and privilege to express the final sentiments of the class of 1931 toward its school. My classmates have shown me a distinctive honor in choosing me for their class orator; therefore, I hope that I am worthy to present their thoughts in a manner truly indicative of the sentiments of each member of the class. With careful consideration I have assembled various conceptions and I assure my audience that they are spoken with utmost sincerity and regard.

I have no desire to theorize on the subject of school spirit. That topic has been eulogized many times, and nothing I might say would alter your opinions one bit. However, I shall endeavor to emphasize those factors, both tangible and intangible, that contribute to successful and happy years at Arlington High School. The benefits that we have received are innumerable; they are of inestimable worth. Perhaps every member of the class has not recognized their value at the time, but emotions so firmly and deeply rooted will inevitably assert themselves. That recognition may not come for many years, but later ideals will have had their foundation in student days.

In my opinion, the diversified scope of activities presented in the school of today is responsible for the spirit of co-operation and friendliness of which I shall endeavor to speak. Academic pursuits have been and always will be the basic element of an excellent school, but without extra-curricula activities, the institution is destined to become lifeless—its members without creative ability or interest. A certain amount of idealism is necessary to the preservation of a successful organization. Blend this with enough usefulness to keep it fundamentally sound, and any project cannot and will not fail. Destroy it and the very core of thought and initiative is annihilated. The various clubs and athletic teams in our school foster idealism and present a goal, always slightly in advance of actual attainment, a goal that every member of the school is able to approach in some manner. The United States of America is an idealistic nation; therefore, it is fitting that our schools follow the example of the country's great leaders and preserve this idealism, which is the symbol of youth and spirit and the burning flame of democratic life.

The single factor in our school life which has been of most benefit and that which I wish to emphasize is the spirit of comradeship. At the mention of the word, no doubt many realizations are formed in your minds, but certainly there is no sentiment that may be appreciated to such an extent as that of comradeship. In the classroom, on the playing field, and in club activities, intimate associations are created, both among students and instructors, that bring out the finest principles of character that are humanly able to exist. The members of the graduating class will never forget the spirit of comradeship which pervades Arlington High School.

The under-classmen of a school always form the nucleus of its activity and support. I am positive that the members of the Senior class wish a portion of their thoughts dedicated to their fellow students—the Juniors and Sophomores. Our work has been completed: we have attempted to accomplish our aims. We have made mistakes: future classes may thus profit and soar to heights of which we were incapable. The class of 1931 surrenders its position unto new and worthy hands.

*"To you from failing hands we throw
The torch. Be yours to hold it high."*

A new and larger building is about to be added to the equipment of Arlington High School. To me, that symbolizes a new and greater purpose and superior ideals to be realized by future classes. We can only hope that we have ascended the ladder of attainment in some manner and that we have placed there a sturdy rung which may be used by the under-classmen.

Finally, I desire to acquaint the school with the characteristics by which the class of 1931 wishes to be remembered. I believe that its genuine spirit of enthusiasm is the trait of which its members are most proud. This spirit has penetrated to every phase of student activity and has inspired the class in various ways. Enthusiasm, wherever and whenever it exists, sponsors its companion attribute—an honest spirit of effort. Effort enjoys the first position in the essential qualifications for success: it is the primary quality to be mastered in the striving toward definite achievement. The possession of this characteristic does not necessarily signify that all effort will be crowned with glory, but it does represent that nothing is impossible to those who endeavor to realize their ideals. Here in school we have found this true—we know it will always be true in the future. Some of our number will achieve that which the world labels success; others will find contentment and happiness in lives of satisfaction and service. Enthusiasm and effort are obvious qualities in the life of a vital organization, but without the characteristic of initiative, its activity may be likened unto an eagle with clipped wings; we hope that a certain degree of initiative has been displayed by our class on several occasions, and believe that its influence has contributed to the high standards of the school. So, the class desires to be remembered for the three qualities of enthusiasm, effort, and initiative.

I have attempted to demonstrate the characteristics by which we shall remember our school and those with which we desire to be associated. We have made an honest endeavor to attain our ideals and contribute to the spirit of the school. Our work is done; we can do no more. With eyes toward the future, but not forgetting the past, immeasurably and visibly strengthened by the influence of Arlington High School, we go to new fields. As a fitting conclusion and as a final sentiment, I desire to leave this thought, which has been immortalized in Milton's "Lycidas."

*"Thus sang the uncouth swain to the oaks and rills,
While the still morn went out with sandals grey:
He touched the tender stops of various quills,
With eager thought warbling his Doric lay;
And now the sun had stretched out all the hills,
And now was dropped into the western bay,
At last he rose, and twitched his mantle blue:
Tomorrow to fresh woods and pastures new."*

LIFE'S PATHWAY

I

*Along the road of life we go,
The sunrise far behind
Lights up the way: its golden glow
The noon day soon will find.
The noon day soon will find.*

II

*But sweet has been this morn to us,
Its memories will be
The brightest flowers along the way
Of life, for you and me.
Of life, for you and me.*

CHORUS

*Oh High School Days, we say, "Adieu."
As hands of friends we clasp.
The goal ahead, we face anew.
The torch of Life to grasp.
The torch of Life to grasp.*

III

*And as the shadows, lengthened,
Foretold the close of day.
Our hearts and hopes are strengthened
By flowers along the way.
By flowers along the way.*

IV

*Still brighter grows our pathway.
As time shall urge us on.
And memories, and hopes will greet
The sunset—and the dawn.
The sunset—and the dawn.*

CHORUS

*Oh High School Days, we say, "Adieu."
As hands of friend we clasp.
The goal ahead, we face anew,
The torch of Life to grasp.
The torch of Life to grasp.*

Row I—Mr. Burke, Mr. Johnson, Miss Blevins, Miss Krastin, Miss Bailey.

The faculty of a school is always the center of rotation of activity, about which everything concentrates. The members of the faculty not only teach the students but also coach them on the athletic field and direct them in club activities. They serve as a fine example for the student body, and help the students in a thousand and one ways. Arlington High School is favored by having a fine group of teachers, and I am sure that every member of the class will remember them for a very long time.

CLASS OF 1931

STUDENT COUNCIL

Donald Hagerman, President; Francis Dineen, Vice-President.

The Student Council has played an important part in governing our school throughout another year. Probably its most useful duty has been to control "traffic" between classes and to direct fire drills. The Honor Roll question of last year was finally settled to the satisfaction of the majority.

Donald Hagerman made a fine President and his ability to handle meetings, as well as his constructive ideas did more than anything else to make the Student Council of real benefit. A committee headed by the President attended a large meeting in Everett and brought back many worth-while ideas.

Francis Dineen, Vice-President and Marjorie Baker, Secretary, were the other officers of the organization.

DRAMATIC CLUB

Row II—W. Hunt, J. Parker, A. Smith, R. Bullock, P. Barris, F. Knight
Row I—W. Gutzman, Mrs. Matthews, Miss Johnston, T. Russell.

The Dramatic Club has certainly maintained its reputation for fine productions this year. This club seems to be the most popular activity in the school, for the membership list has soared far, far above the hundred mark.

Shades of Hamlet!—but there have been a number of fine productions this year. The first Dramatic Club assembly was composed of two one act plays—"America First" and "In the Ravine." At Christmas time, "The Lighted Hearth" was produced, a very elaborate one-act medieval romance. "Shavings," a three-act comedy, dramatized from the novel of Joseph Lincoln, was presented at the Town Hall on April 10, 1931. The play was very popular and very successful. "The King's English," a satirical one-act play was given first at an assembly, and then before the Women's Club.

We must compliment the club for its wholesome interest in fine dramatic art, and also the spirit of fun which pervades the organization. It is due to the able direction of Mrs. Matthews and the assistance of Miss Johnson that the productions have been a success.

The officers are as follows:

President
Vice-President
Second Vice-President
Secretary
Treasurer

Allen Smith
John Parker
Frances Sheppard
Marjorie McCann

BOYS' AND GIRLS' GLEE CLUBS

Row II—E. Low, M. Turner, T. Russell, F. Holway, E. Clarke, V. Tate, M. Youngken.
Row I—F. Dineen, Miss Pierce, O. Little.

This year, the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs again worked as two separate units. However, in February the two organizations combined to present to the public the operetta "Patience." This was the most elaborate production the school has ever attempted, and its overwhelming success was due in large part to Miss Grace G. Pierce, its director. The co-operation of each club and the fine performance of the members of the cast supplied a very interesting evening.

In addition to the public presentation, both clubs again helped make many assemblies successful.

The Girls' Glee Club also attended a meeting of New England high schools in Salem as part of its year's program.

The year's officers were as follows:

Boys
Pres. Francis Dineen
Vice-Pres. Everett Clarke
Sec. Frederick Holway
Treas. Turner Russell

Girls
Olive Little
Marion Youngken
Elizabeth Low
Virginia Tate

The "Clarion" has passed through another successful year. Under the immediate direction of Otis MacMillin, a fine magazine has been produced. This year a new and up-to-date cover design was introduced and a more convenient one-column page has been used.

Serious financial difficulties were overcome, due in a large degree to the aid of Mr. Nelson, the faculty advisor in this branch of the magazine. The "Clarion's" former high literary standard has been maintained this year by the careful direction of Miss Riley.

The whole staff is to be congratulated for the fine "Clarion" it has given the school, and for the amount of work each member has put into his department.

DEBATING CLUB

Row II—J. Magee, J. O'Donnell, F. Donovan, F. Parker.
Row I—C. Blakely, D. Buckley, M. Byer, L. Wax.

The boys' debating club was again organized, but not until rather late in the year. In spite of this handicap, with Daniel Buckley as president, the society had a successful year. At the semi-monthly meetings, many interesting subjects were discussed.

On February 6, 1931 the first organized debate was held with Somerville. J. Magee, W. Ramsey, and L. Wax upheld the negative side of the question: Resolved, that the jury system be abolished; and were defeated. The following Monday, Arlington, represented by D. Buckley, M. Byer, and C. Blakely upheld the affirmative side of the same question and won.

College Boards prevented the accepting of several other challenges, for unfortunately most of the club were Seniors. Miss Lawton's able assistance helped the organization make the fine showing which it succeeded in doing.

ORCHESTRA

The orchestra has again played an important part in our school this year. After a lapse of two seasons, the Friday assembly again became a regular feature of the school program. This fact helped restore the orchestra to its former prominent position. This year's organization boasted some 35 pieces, and all of them helped to make assemblies interesting.

In addition to the regular assemblies, the orchestra performed most creditably at the annual concert given before the Woman's Club. Between the acts of the Public Play the orchestra gave the audience an enjoyable few minutes. Last, and perhaps as important as any, was the night school graduation which the orchestra ably assisted.

An innovation this year which proved quite successful was a student director. Copeland MacAllister directed the orchestra like a veteran and contributed much to its fine showing. The school is very proud of Miss Pierce, director of the orchestra and both Glee Clubs, for the fine work she has done.

Despite the fact that the football team was considerably "tied-up" this past season, having the fine record of four ties in ten games, it made a fine showing, and in the first half of the coveted Melrose game had the "champs" licked in more ways than one. A very promising season is looked forward to by all, although many veterans graduate this spring.

The many fine runners who have made Arlington proud of its cross country team for the past three years are all graduating. It's the end of a perfect day for Coach "Doc" McCarty and his gang of runners, and it has been a fine season with which to end. A State Championship, a second place in the Harvard Interscholastic Cross Country Meet, and many a fine victory in dual meets can be looked back upon with pride. I propose that each one of us shows his gratitude and appreciation to "Doc" and his gang not only for their fine work during the past season, but for their untiring efforts in former years as well.

As the yearbook goes to press we have no list of letter girls. A schedule of six games has been planned. Of the three already played, Arlington has won two. With this encouraging start and with assertions from those who ought to know, we feel sure the team will have a very successful season and will be a real asset to the school. Certainly if pictures and advance rumors mean anything, we ought to have a championship outfit. Best of luck, girls!

5. "Libby" Eames — Come on in! The water's fine!
6. Howard Harrison — Look out for me. I'm "Deadwood Dick!"
7. "Don" Hagerman — A young sailor boy beating on a drum. Some combination.

Page 108 —

1. Jean Holton and Doris Elie — That's quite a flight of stairs for two little girls to be sitting on.
2. Margaret Hart — Watching the world go by.
3. Marion McManus — Give me a ride, please?
4. "Gay" Andres and Nancy Webb — Such a cynical way of looking at the world.
5. Anne Kennedy and Barbara Hall — Friends forever.
6. "Midge" McCann — That's some vehicle to ride in.
7. Persis Eames — This is the best one of them all.
8. Louise Donnelly — Pretty dangerous behind that automobile. Eh, what!

CLAUDETTE COLBERT
says: "Lux Toilet Soap is wonderful for keeping the skin smooth. I certainly enjoy using it!"

because

Smooth Skin Captivates

leading actresses use LUX Toilet Soap

It is a well-known fact that an overwhelming majority of the stars in the Broadway successes use Lux Toilet Soap Like 9 out of 10 screen stars, they have found that this daintily fragrant white soap keeps the skin at its very loveliest: smooth and soft and attractive. Because so many actresses are devoted to Lux Toilet Soap, leading theatres throughout the country have placed it in their dressing rooms. In New York alone 71 of the 74 legitimate theatres have done this—and in Hollywood all the great film studios have made it the official soap in their dressing rooms. Lux Toilet Soap—10¢.
